ついに起こってしまいました。

ドナルド・トランプの、新たな輸入関税により、

世界中の貿易取引が困難に陥るような、市場を暴落させる売り浴びせに陥らせました。政治評論家たちはその影響について議論していますが、市場はすでにその答えを出しています。4月の急激な修正の後、S&P 500は安定し、再び史上最高値に向けて上昇しています。

このような不確実な時代において、どうしてそのようなことが起こりえるのでしょうか？おそらく、チャートがそう示しているからでしょう。

テクニカルアナリストとして、私たちはこのようなパラドックスには慣れています。

世界が危機を叫ぶ中、市場は静かに進行しています。S&P 500は、依然として力強い長期上昇トレンドにあります。

サポートゾーンは担保されています。RSIのマイナスやMACDの乖離といったテクニカルな警告サインでさえ、少なくとも今のところ、全体像は変えていません。これは、株価はヘッドライン（見出し）ではなく、期待を反映しているということをお私たちに思い起こさせてくれます。現在、市場は表面の騒音に関わらず、強いビジネス環境、税制優遇措置、または規制緩和を先取りしているようです。

ここが私たちの専門性が重要なポイントです。

テクニカル分析は、驚きに満ちた世界を切り拓くツールを提供してくれます。トレンド、価格構造、出来高の動向、モメンタム——これらは政治を予期するものではありませんが、投資家が本当にどう感じているかを示しています。感情が高ぶる時でも、私たちのチャートは冷静です。

だからこそ、IFTAでの私たちの仕事は重要です。

STA (United Kingdom)

The Society of Technical Analysts

We've enjoyed a dynamic and insightful speaker programme this Spring. In March, Zoë Bollinger, Vice President and Portfolio Manager at Bollinger Capital Management, delivered a compelling talk on practical relative strength portfolios. This was followed in April by Robin Griffiths and Ron William of RW Advisory, who shared their perspectives on the 2025 Global Macro Outlook. Most recently, Kim Cramer Larsson presented a fascinating masterclass on behavioural finance and trading psychology, offering attendees a deeper understanding of the psychological drivers behind market behaviour.

The latest issue of STA Journal, The Market Technician, came out in March. Packed with research articles from luminaries such as Perry Kaufman and Sunny Harris, interviews and news, the STA journal is a one-stop way to keep in touch with our activities. Click here to read the latest issue. If you would like to contribute an article we would love to hear from you! Email info@technicalanalysts.com for more details.

Bookings are now open for the STA Diploma Part 1 Course, beginning on 15 October 2025. Delivered online via interactive Zoom webinars, the course allows students to participate in real-time, asking questions as they would in a traditional classroom. For those unable to attend live, recordings will be available post-event, with the option to email questions to the STA office or post them on the STA Student Forum, where course lecturers will provide answers.

Classes will take place from 6:00pm to 8:00pm (London time), and login details will be sent out closer to the course start date. The IFTA and CISI accredited STA Diploma Part 1 examination is scheduled for the day-time on Monday 8 December 2025 and will be conducted online under Zoom invigilation, allowing candidates to sit the exam in the comfort of their own space.

The online format offers a key advantage: students who are unable to travel to London can still access live lectures or watch them at their convenience. For full course dates, pricing, and further details, please visit: technicalanalysts.com/education/sta-courses/#course1-details

Thoughts about Elliott Wave: Elongated wave C flat wave (Inverted Flat) again

First, I should mention that this is not the first time I have discussed this formation, I have previously published three articles about it in IFTA newsletters.

Another point I should mention is that, the name of 'inverted flat' is one name I personally gave to this formation, not Ralph Nelson Elliott, and I'll explain why:

When R. N. Elliott explained flats, he talked about only the main two types of flats.

The first is a regular flat wave, where the three sides—A, B, and C—are approximately equal in length.

The second is an irregular flat wave, where the three sides are not equal in length.

Elliott included three types of flats under the irregular category without assigning specific names to them. Later, Elliott wave teachers and users gave them the current known names expanding and running, but no one was highlighting the elongated wave C flat as much..

Now the question is: Why call it an 'inverted flat'?

126 R. N. ELLIOTT'S MARKET LETTERS

INTERPRETIVE LETTER No. 30
November 30, 1943 to March 1944

This Letter is of special importance. In the Treatise on page 17, paragraph 1, are 3 diagrams, A, B and C. They are shown below.

The above patterns, inverted, appear as follows:

The movement from July to November 1943 in all averages was a "zigzag," as per diagram A. From November 30, 1943 to March, all patterns are likewise corrective, that is, corrections of corrections.¹ If from November 1943 the market were headed higher, the patterns from July to November 1943 would have been sufficient correction and the initial movement from November 30 would have been composed of 5 waves, not 3 waves as in the present case.

Some of the movements are composed of just 3 waves, others are "double 3s" and occasionally "triple 3s," all of which have the same significance, i.e., corrective character.

At the extreme top and bottom of the graph will be found dates of week endings. At the right side the scales are shown. The Industrials are graphed 1/4 " per point, Rails 1/2" per point, Utilities 1" per point.²

Interpretive & Forecast Letters

Industrials, graph P. The first movement, up to January 5th, is a "triple 3." The second movement, down to February 7, is a "flat." The third movement, up, is an inverted "flat." See diagram Y in paragraph 2.

Rails, graph Q. The first movement up to January 22nd is an inverted flat as per diagram Y (see paragraph 2). It might have ended there. The entire movement from November 30 to March 22 is an inverted "flat" (diagram Z).

Utilities, graph R. This is composed of two "triple 3s"

Figure 1

Education Lounge

The answer:

As shown in figure 1 (Robert Prechter- R. N. Elliott's Market Letters 1938 – 1946, PDF copy, Pages nos. 126 and 127)

The first time R. N. Elliott talked about elongated wave C flat was in interpretive letter no. 30 "November 1943 to March 1944".

At the left side of diagram, we can see R. N. Elliott drew the elongated wave C flat formation twice—once as a flat and once as an inverted flat. But we should observe that the attached example at the right side is only for an inverted flat. May be he didn't find an example of flat with an elongated wave C as he imagines.

disclosed and the student might erroneously assume that it was composed of five waves in the daily. The weekly range of an inverted flat would appear as being composed of seven waves, whereas it would be an inverted flat, i.e., A, B, (1, 2, 3, 4, 5) C, as shown in Figure 53.

When R. N. Elliott talked again about the formation in his last book (Natures Law) in 1946 he had mentioned only the inverted flat and had ignored the other flat. Why?

The answer is for one reason, Elliott envisioned that the formation must move freely and expansively to increase and that can only occur in an inverted flat.

For this reason, I gave it the name of inverted flat.

So, according to Elliott, there are four types of flats.

1. Regular flat.
2. Expanding flat, under irregular flats classification.
3. Running flat, under irregular flats classification.
4. Elongated wave C flat (inverted flat), under irregular flats classification.

Example for Elongated Wave C flat

Education Lounge

Figure 3 shows the weekly chart for gold. We believe that the gold is building an irregular flat wave since September 2011 at $1920 until now, from that level to $1045 level in 2015 was wave “a” on cycle degree.

From $1045 until now, wave ‘b’ has been unfolding and not finished yet. And it is an elongated wave C flat wave. Why we believe in this?

Please note, the beginning wave from $1045 which was completed at $1375 level in 2016 was a corrective wave, it has a three wave structure, so, all the rising what we are seeing is a part of a corrective wave.

We believe that wave B completed wave A at $1375, and wave B from $1375 level to $1160 level in 2018 and from that level and date the elongated wave C of B has been running.

Wave 1 of C began from $1160 level to $2075 level in 2020.

Wave 2 of C began from $2075 level to $1616 level in 2022.

Wave 3 of C began from $1616 level to $3500 level in this year 2025.

We believe that wave 4 of C is running from the $3500 level, targeting the $2770 level or a level between $2550 to $2330.

According to alternation guideline, because of the wave 2 was sharp, so, expecting wave 4 will be sideways. Therefore, the $2770 level is a key area to monitor.

Alternate scenario, prices make a new high upper $3500 level because of extended of wave 3 of C.
